THOUGHT THAT GIRL'S NAME WAS ROSE YOUNG

"Hoodoo" Trunk In Pittsburg
Causes Police To Make
Investigation.

HAS LOCAL CONNECTION

East End Mystery May Be
Associated With Finding
Of Woman's Body.

It is very possible that the body of the woman who was found along the river shore between Charleroi and Speers on the 24th of January was that of Miss Rose Young of Pittsburg. This is the latest theory and one that is being worked upon by the Pittsburg police. The description of the woman, Rose Young, who for a time was a domestic in the home of Cooke Bauserman, of C. Gauseman and Co., at 7225 McPherson street East End, tallies very closely with that of the Charleroi lady. The discovery of the possible connection came through the refusal of other girls which the family hired following Miss Young's disappearance, refusing to sleep in the room where the trunk had been kept.

In the trunk were found letters addressed to Rose Young at Wheeling, Rose Weaver, Wheeling and N. E. Gilmore, Cincinnati, Ohio. When employed by the family the woman gave her name as Rose Young and her home at 844 Main street, Wheeling, W. Va.

While working at the Bauserman home she was rather mysterious in her actions, which fact made the family take considerable notice of her, but they never found anything wrong. On Wednesday, December 23, she went down town, bought some clothing, and the next afternoon left the house, without letting the family know anything about where she was going. She has not been seen since, but the fact of her resemblance of her features to the photograph of the woman who was found on the river shore here, and the fitting description, leads the police of Pittsburg to think that it was indeed the mysterious personage, whose life came to an end in Charleroi.

Inspector Walsh of the East End police station said that he thought it quite likely that the trunk in the East End home was that of the woman of Charleroi but that he would investigate, and if not able to locate the owner of the trunk would consider his theory the right one.

The Charleroi police have worked out several clues, but none that have had any fruitful results. At present they are at a standstill, not knowing what to take up next. There are some doubts as to whether the surmise of Inspector Walsh and his men is correct.

BISH. WHITEHEAD CONFIRMS LARGE CLASS SATURDAY

The attendance at the confirmation service of St. Mary's Episcopal church last Saturday evening, was the largest in the history of the Parish. The service began with shortened form of evening prayer, followed by an address by Cortlandt Whitehead, Bishop of the Diocese.

The Bishop's remarks were directed more especially toward a defence of the three orders of the Christian ministry, as set forth in Holy Scripture, and held from the beginning by the church, also her practice of a Liturgical form of worship.

He said, in part, that the Episcopal church was greatly misunderstood and misrepresented. That she stood for what was strictly scriptural and had been held from the very beginning. That her Liturgical form of worship has not the arrangement of man, but the ordering of God. Inasmuch as she accepts the teaching of the whole Bible, and not a part of it. That the New Testament was the completion, and fulfillment of the whole as showed forth in the old Testament.

In defence of the Ritual preferred to the ancient ceremony of the Temple, and shown by such reference to its gorgeous ceremonial that it was ordered by God to the minutest detail. He congratulated the church upon the progress made within the last few months, and bespoke for them a most successful future.

The Bishop expressed himself as most delighted with his visit and entertainment in Charleroi.

Another Suit Has Been Filed Against The Donora Church

A suit to recover $8,300 from the Rt. Rev. Regis Canavin, bishop of the Pittsburgh Catholic diocese, and trustee of the Holy Name church of Donora, has been filed in the Allegheny county courts, by the American Trust company of Boston.

The amount is covered by three notes endorsed by P. J. Kieran, president of the defunct Fidelity Funding company of New York.

LAUDANUM AND SPIRITS COMBINATION

Local Man Gets Too Much
"Stuff" In System And
Raves.

IS CLOSELY GUARDED Spent Night In Cell At Lockup And Did Strange Things.

With some laudanum and liquor in his stomach Harry Lucas a Charleroi colored man was last night a raving mad man. Today however with the laudanum and the liquor out, he is the same hard working, honest person, that he is generally known to be, and seemingly no worse for his terrible experience.

It is said that Lucas while standing on the corner of Fifth street and McKean avenue last evening between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, half emptied a vial containing some fluid. A moment later he approached Policeman McDowd who was on the corner and asked him to take him to the station house stating that he had taken something. McDowd started to accommodate him, but it is said on the way up Lucas took the remainder of the stuff, and before they had got far, owing to the effect of the drug on the man, assistance had to be called. Chief Albright and officer Higgins responded, and Alex. Hanson was called upon. These four with hard work got Lucas to the lockup where he was placed in a cell. He was fighting the police and beating himself, it is said, in a mad way.

After being placed in the lockup, Dr. Smith was called. He gave Lucas an antidote, which brought the laudanum and whiskey out of his stomach. It did not seem to stop his ravings, however, and a guard had to be placed over him all night. At one time, it is said Lucas tried to hang himself with his coat, and tried to commit strange actions.

The vial which contained the laudanum and spirits which was taken by Lucas was a two ounce bottle, and was rather well filled when he began to drink, it was well drained.

Whether the man meant to commit suicide or not is not known, but this is hardly credited. It is supposed that he suffered temporary mental derangement. This morning Lucas in calling to mind events that happened last night at the time he took the first dose, said that some one gave it to him.

UNKNOWN MAN COMES TO DEATH ON RAILROAD THIS MORNING

This morning at Bamford station an unknown man was killed by the train due in this place at 10:35. He was brought on to this place on the same train and taken to the undertaking establishment of I. C. Wycoff on Fairfield avenue. The body was not badly cut up or crushed, and there were no bones broken except those about the head. In fact he did not seem injured at all.

The man is about 35 or 40 years of age, and 5 feet 6 inches in height. The head was mashed, but the face would be recognizable to the friends.

SEWERS TROUBLE THE TOWN

Belle Vernon People Find
Out They Got In Wrong
Years Ago.

RECEIVE COMMUNICATION Health Commissioner Dixon Writes To Council Of Matter.

Because it built extensions to its sewer system within the last three or four years without permission of the State Board of Health, Belle Vernon brought has been called upon to explain its actions to that body. Similar action is likely in North Belle Vernon, where much longer extensions have been made. Delay in making a report or getting the matter fixed up with the health authorities throws the municipality liable to a fine of $50 a day for each day such sewer is maintained.

It has only just come to the knowledge of the health commissioner that sewer extensions have been built since the law of 1-95 which requires that permission must be obtained before any sewer can be laid. A party of officials is now at work making an investigation of conditions in the Monongahela river water shed, and upon learning the facts Commissioner Samuel G. Dixon immediately sent a letter of inquiry to the council. Nothing has yet been done however.

Court Reporter W. H. McEnroe has completed the transcribing of the testimony in the Lenhart case, and it is now ready to be turned over to the counsel for the defendant, so that they may prepare the necessary paper book to place the matter before the Superior court. The testimony covers over 600 typewritten pages, making a book a little over an inch thick. If the defense prints all the exhibits the paper book will contain about 1,000 pages.

The case will come before the Superior court at its sitting in Pittsburg in April. In the meantime Lenhart is out on bail and is also bound to appear at the May term of criminal court to answer the charge of aiding and abetting an embezzlement. Should there be a decision of the appellate court before the May term affirming the lower court's judgment in the case, it is likely that Lenhart will not be called to trial on the second charge, but be permitted to begin at once his two years' sentence.

EVENT OF INTEREST AMONG AUTO MEN

An event that is arousing great interest among automobile men of every class will be held on April 28-29-30, when an endurance run open to all makers of cars, will be conducted by The Chronicle Telegraph and the Gazette Times. A handsome silver cup, with numerous other special prizes, will be awarded the car making the most perfect score at the end of the three-day run. This event promises to do more to stimulate enthusiasm in automobilism in this section of the country than any other contest ever pulled off, for many reasons, and will demonstrate just what cars can stand the severe test in this part of the country, where most manufacturers do not care to be represented on account of the hilly country that its necessary to traverse.

NOTICE

As many of the business people of Charleroi and vicinity are under the impression that M. J. Tykavsky is still president of the Russian Orthodox church of Charleroi, and go to him for the transaction of business connected with the church, I desire to say that he has not been connected with this organization since September 23, 1907. A new president was then elected and M. J. Tykavsky has nothing to do with church affairs since that date. All business to be transacted with the church should be addressed to Alexander Zura, of 1216 Meadow avenue or the secretary, J. B. Hordishinsky, of 936 Meadow avenue.

Monongahela Board Makes Preliminary Arrangements For New Building.

THE PLUMBING CONTRACT

Local Firm Will Doubtless Be Favored; Their Figure
Being The Best.

On Saturday afternoon at Monongahela the general contract for the erection of the new school building for the Third ward, for which a bond issue was declared recently, was let by the school board. The successful bidder was the Homestead Lumber company, who despite the fact that Ramella and Ramella, of Waynesburg was more than $1,000 below them in their bid was awarded the contract.

The Homestead Lumber company's contract price for the general work was $27,611.13. The bid of the Waynesburg firm was $27,418.37. Work is to begin at once on the new structure which is to be placed on the corner of Ninth Thomas and Grant streets. It is hoped to have the six rooms that will be finished first on the first floor ready for the opening of the school for the fall term.

The heating and plumbing contracts were held over until next Saturday, owing to the time consumed in the letting of the general contract. It is likely that Regan and Hormell of Charleroi will be favored in the latter as their bid is the lowest.

The letting of the contract has been held over for some weeks. At first it was planned to have the entire building finished, but it was found that the Board could not keep within the appropriation, and it was decided to finish but the first floor, although the upper floor will be arranged so that it can be fitted up in a very short time.

The structure will be a twelve room brick, and the plans are for one of the most modern school buildings in the valley.

Date of Inauguration.

The proposed change of the date of the inauguration of the President is one that is receiving great discussion.
While some favor the 1st of May, others have suggested the 1st of July and so forth. In fact there have been several dates suggested, but none however, we might add, that would really be more suitable than the 4th of May. It is quite likely that the Constitution will be amended to the effect that the inauguration come on a later date, but the idea of the proper time may be anywhere from March to December. The probable weather condition at the last inauguration, shows what may and what is likely to happen during this month.
The month of May, at just the time when the mellow spring is ripening much better time than any other,
for the one reason, if no other, of the better weather conditions to be had at that time. May is known as an unusually mild month, and the outdoor exercises incident with the inauguration would not be attended with the discomforts which come frequently during the present set date.

Should Congress so decide to amend the Constitution, within the next four years. Mr. Taft will serve for a term longer than any of his predecessors in office. It will be for him four years and two months for a term. Already he has something to distinguish him above that of any other President, that of mental and legislative training, to fit him for his place, and he would not be surprised to see him get the above mentioned two months added onto his term.

Black Hand Men Glad.

The news comes of the shooting of one of America's greatest detectives on Saturday night in Italy, where he had gone to look into the alleged head quarters of the Camorra band, members of which are to be found in great numbers in this country. This brave man was Joseph Petrosino, an Italian, who has done more to rid this country of the members of this race than any other man living. It has been said that there was no Black Hand, and it has been said there is.
People claim they know, and one Italian may say one thing and another may say something else, but evidently Petrosino found there was such a band in existence, and fought them at every corner, which fact is accountable for his death. He went to Italy secretly and visited the holes of iniquity where the desperate deeds of blood thirstiness and violence were planned, and got the enemies of the ring-leaders. But in some way knowledge of his presence came to some of the assassins, and his death followed.
It is hard to lose such a man, especially when there is none ready to take his place. It takes the bravest man to try to fight the Black Hand, and Petrosino was one of them.

Advantages to be Gained.

The miner's ranks claim more men than almost any other of the trades or professions and especially in this valley, which gives reason for the intense interest among the people in anything that concerns them. The miners are withal an easily governed body, and the system of the United Mine Workers of America has done much for them, but another link in the getting of better results in this valley will be had if the plan of President Francis Feehan of the Fifth district is adopted at the convention which meets tomorrow in Pittsburg.
There is every assurance that it will be, for the miners are not slow to recognize anything that is for their good. The matter of dividing the district into six different and smaller ones, and yet placing them all under the same head is not altogether an original one. It is done in other sections, and it has proven a great success, which fact influenced President Feehan to take it up here. It will give the miners themselves more of a voice in matters. It will provide also a way of settling difficulties and the locals themselves can take up all matters of ordinary interest that at present have to be taken to the district president, and consume time and money, which might in the meantime be fixed at home. In brief these are a few of the advantages to be achieved by the adoption of the plan to be suggested by President Feehan. There are more, however, and those best realized by the miners.

Electric Sparks.

Illinois is considering a bill to "label unmarried men." That is, it married men certainly don't need the label.

A family in this city has just celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the entrance of the creek into their service.
Truth is stronger than fiction.

Mr. Taft appears to have made it fairly plain that the colored brother's door of hope does not necessarily open on a pathway leading to the plea counter.

"Street cars are loaded with microbes," says a Columbus university professor. A college professor should be in a better position to people names like that.

As a slaveholder Washington was invented at $100. If as freedom all his race were worth as much more as he is the negro problem would be pretty nearly solved.

Purple evening clothes for women are now being worn by some of the advanced thinkers of New York.

Little sympathy should be wasted upon the Philadelphian who was robbed of $200 in the Philadelphia City Hall. He must have known the desperate chances he was taking.

Mr. Roosevelt is not returning to what, strictly speaking, may be described as private life. Never more privacy for him. Just as he has never ceased to be a citizen while president, he will never cease to be an ex-president while a citizen. The everyday plane is denied him. He must, as long as he lives, pay the penalty of his fame and achievement.

His worst enemies do not deny that he has the qualities to make a cracking ex-President.

The difference between a man and a woman is that the man can be right without a reason and he has been wrong in one.

When President Taft says he is an optimist it is easy to believe him.
A man with that kind of smile couldn't be anything else.

The number of Lucky Baldwin's relatives who are turning up since it is known that he left an estate of $2,700,000 at least makes it clear why he was called "Lucky." It was because the relatives didn't find him while he was alive.

While worshippers were praying in a Methodist church in Poughkeepsie the devil, with horns, tail and pitchfork, came walking down the aisle, but when a man arose to grapple with him, he fled into the snow storm.
Satan should have better sense than
to try to frighten a Methodist.

In Minnesota chorus girls are banned from wearing red, white and blue tights by a fine of $500. The object is to prevent the alleged defilement of the national colors. The next thing we shall hear of, is that some over sensitive patriot will protest against the colors on the barber pole.

CIRCUS CHILDREN.

The Making of Acrobats Begins at an Early Age.

It is nothing unusual for the larger circuses to carry thirty and forty children, ranging all the way from mere babies to boys and girls of fifteen and sixteen years of age. The majority are traveling with their parents, both the father and mother doing daily duty in the ring, and while often they are trained to follow in the steps of their elders they are seldom allowed to perform in public.

It is a common belief among circus men that the performer whose training is not started until after the age of six will seldom make a distinctive record.
Following the afternoon show I often saw groups of boys, some of whom could not have been over four and five years old, practicing rudimentary somersaults and hand springs, while their parents looked on with a gratified smile. These were the families of the circus aristocracy, who treasure the records of their ancestors with the pride of a son in his father's sword and who see no more inspiring calling for their own children than that of the great white canvas.

Not that their education is neglected in other respects. Several of the families often hire an instructor—perhaps one of the performers who has the time and ability for such work—to coach their children in the standard studies. One circus has a traveling school for the youngsters. If they are to be acrobats, they are to be educated acrobats.—Bohemian Magazine.

A Sponge That Works.

"Here is a clever notion—a fog bell,"
said an old New England fisherman.
On a bleak, gray afternoon they stood at the seashore—the old man and his city cousin from Boston. A great bell hung from a scaffold, and under a metal cover hung a great sponge.
"This here machinery is wound up regular," the fisherman explained, "and this here sponge is kept under cover so as the rain can't get at it. In dry weather, natch'rally, the sponge is dry and light; in foggy, though, it gets heavy with fog saturation, just heavy enough for to press down the lever that starts the machinery a-goin'.
Then, ding-dong, ding-dong, sounds the bell in the fog, savin' many a fisherman from wreck on this rock bound coast."—Exchange.

A Necessity.

"Twenty dollars for rettriming your hat!" exclaimed Mr. Madison. "But we agreed to spend nothing except for things that were positively needed."
"Well, John, this is. You see, my best friend has just had his hat re-trimmed and I have promised to go with her to the concert on Friday."
"Oh, all right. But I can't give you more than fifteen this morning, because I broke my meerschaum and must have
it mended."

Sardou's Quiz

"Victorian Sardou hated shams," said a New York theatrical rascal.
"If you tried to impose on him he would call you down."
"At the Ambien during a rehearsal he said he doubted an actor's statement that he had given forty hours of study to his lines."
"You doubt me?" said the actor hotly. "I assure you, M. Sardou, I have never lied but twice in my life."
"Sardou smiled dryly."
"Then, this makes three, eh?" said he.

A SUNDAY STROLL.

This Recreation Was at One Time
Unlawful in Maine.

Something of the exact behavior demanded from young people by those in authority in the early days of the nineteenth century is brought to notice in the biography of Peter Edes, a pioneer printer in Maine. Mr. Edes had an apprentice, James Orrock, who enjoyed a walk on Sunday after a week of indoor employment.

Mr. Edes soon found out that this was not permitted at Bangor and wrote to a friend of the trouble caused him by his apprentice's apparently innocent amusement.

"You must know," he writes, "that the people are very strict on this day and will not let men walk out, much less boys. James was strolling about and was ordered home by the tything men, but he would not obey them. A complaint was lodged against me on the next day, and I should have been obliged to pay a fine had not Judge Dutton pleaded in my behalf that I did not approve of such conduct and so got clear."

Another interesting incident in connection with life in Bangor at this time is an advertisement which appeared in Mr. Edes' paper, the Bangor Weekly Register, stating that "E. & M. R. Edes have opened a school in the room over the Register office for the instruction of young misses and small children in the useful and ornamental branches of education."

The terms were: "Orthography and plain work, 17 cents per week; writing, English grammar, geography with the use of maps, composition, ornamental needlework, 25 cents per week." This was probably one of the first schools in Maine for teaching young ladies exclusively in the branches of education and also in hiding plain work and fanciful needlework.

CAN YOU SPELL?

Test Your Ability by Writing This Jumble From Dictation.

It is some time ago since spelling bees were popular forms of entertainment in this country, but still one occasionally comes across the very superior person who tells you he can easily spell any word ever printed in a dictionary. If ever you meet this type of man, first ask somebody to dictate the following jumble to him and see how many mistakes he will make.

"Antinous, a disappointed, desolate physicist, was peeling potatoes in an embarrassing and humiliating way. His idiosyncrasy and privilege was to eat mayonnaise and mussels while staring at the Ptenades and seeing people's tricycles and velocipedes. He was an erring testotator and had been on a pleasure jamboree. He rode a palfray stallion and carried a salable papier mache bouquet of asters, phlox, mullein, chrys-anthemums, rhododendrons, fuchsias and nasturtiums.

"He wore a shly's resplendent turquoise paraphernalia, an ermine cash-mak and astrakhan chaparope. He drank erys-threible and dregreable cureanos tipples through a sieve. He stole some moneys and hid them under a peddler's mithegany bedstead and mattress.

"Like a mend in an ecstasy of aggony I rushed after him into the midstream, or melee, and held him as in a vice. I could not leave him, however, and he addressed me, with authority, in the following imbecile words, which sounded like a soliloquy or a superer-ding paean on an obse: 'You are a rati-ble lunamoth, a salammug vazier, an equinoctial coryphe and an iso-celes daguerreotype.'—New York Mail

A Curious Story.

The queen of Hanover, wife of King Ernest Augustus of Hannover (better known as the Duke of Cumberland, son of George III.), died at Hanover about 1812 of an illness which baffled the skill of her doctors as to its real cause. During her illness a clairvoyant was consulted who wrote certain curious signs and words on the door of her bedroom; but, although these mystic words were repeated over and over again, the queen died. The king of Hanover after his wife's death gave orders that her bedroom should always be kept as though the queen would sleep there at night. The bed was turned down, the pillows re-shaken, hot water brought and the daintiest slippers laid in readiness for her.—Home Notes

"Me too."
Still they waited for the elevator.—

Just What You Have Been Wishing For

The greatest American play, by the greatest American playwright, is "The Witching Hour," by Augustus Thomas. It has been novelized by the author himself, and the story is even better than the play. The Pittsburgh Dispatch has secured from Harper Brothers of New York exclusive serial rights, and the tale will begin Sunday, March 21. It is a most fascinating story of hypnotism, telepathy, love, mystery and crime. Don't miss the start. "The Witching Hour," beginning Sunday, March 21, in The Pittsburgh Dispatch.

An Unthought Pardon.

Among the stories of that former governor of Texas familiarly known as Sam Houston is more than one amusing tale.

There was a financial agent of the penitentiary who had warmly opposed the election of Governor Houston, but was particularly anxious to retain his own pleasantly lucrative position. Consequently the new governor was soon in receipt of a petition in which the man's years of faithful service and special qualifications for the place were set forth in glowing terms by himself.

The governor sent for him and said gravely, "It appears from this petition that you have been in the penitentiary eight years."

"I have," was the reply. "And during that time you have performed faithfully every duty that has come in your way to the best of your ability?"

"I have," answered the agent, his courage swiftly rising.

"Then, sir," said the governor, with the air of one conferring a priceless favor, "I pardon you out."

A Queen's Will.

Queen Adelaide, the wife of William IV., was a woman of great piety and exceptional humility, which was shown in the directions for her funeral.

"I die in all humility," she wrote "knowing well we are all alike before the throne of God, and I request, therefore, that my mortal remains be conveyed to the grave without any pomp or ceremony. They are to be moved to St. George's chapel, Windsor, where I request to have a quiet funeral."

"I particularly desire not to be laid out in state, and the funeral to take place by daylight, no procession, the coffin to be carried by sailors to the chapel. I die in peace and wish to be carried to the tomb in peace and free from the clamors and pomp of this world."—London Home Notes.

Too Much For His Mind.

"My first impulses," wailed the sad-eyed individual, "are invariably good in fact. I think that I may venture without fear of undue exaggeration to say that they are very good. But I never act on them. I always act on second thought. This trait of my character has ruined my career, because my second thoughts are always bad. In fact, I think I may say without fear of misapprehension that they're punk."

"Well," suggested he who was listening, "why don't you wait until third thoughts and act on them?" Mournfully, despondently, the sad-eyed individual shook his head. "My dear sir," he groaned, "I never had three successive thoughts about anything in my life."—Exchange.

THOUGHT THAT GIRL'S NAME WAS ROSE YOUNG

"Hoodoo" Trunk In Pittsburg
Causes Police To Make
Investigation.

HAS LOCAL CONNECTION

East End Mystery May Be
Associated With Finding
Of Woman's Body.

It is very possible that the body of the woman who was found along the river shore between Charleroi and Speers on the 24th of January was that of Miss Rose Young of Pittsburg. This is the latest theory and one that is being worked upon by the Pittsburg police. The description of the woman, Rose Young, who for a time was a domestic in the home of Cooke Bauesman, of C. Bauesman and Co., at 725 McPherson street, East End, tallies very closely with that of the Charleroi lady. The discovery of the possible connection came through the refusal of other girls which the family hired following Miss Young's disappearance, refusing to sleep in the room where the trunk had been kept.

In the trunk were found letters addressed to Rose Young at Wheeling, Rose Weaver, Wheeling and Nellie Gilmore, Charleroi, Ohio. When employed by the family the woman gave her name as Rose Young and her home at 514 Main street, Wheeling, W. Va.

While working at the Bauesman home she was rather mysterious in her actions, which fact made the family take considerable notice of her, but they never found anything wrong. On Wednesday, December 23, she went down town, bought some clothing, and the next afternoon left the house, without letting the family know anything about where she was going. She has not been seen since, but the fact of her resemblance of her features to the photograph of the woman who was found on the river shore here, and the fitting description, leads the police of Pittsburg to think that it was indeed the mysterious personage, whose life came to an end in Charleroi.

Inspector Walsh of the East End police station said that he thought it quite likely that the trunk in the East End home was that of the woman of Charleroi but that he would investigate, and if not able to locate the owner of the trunk would consider his theory the right one.

The Charleroi police have worked out several clues, but none that have had any fruitful results. At present they are at a standstill, not knowing what to take up next. There are some doubts as to whether the surmise of Inspector Walsh and his men is correct.

BISH. WHITEHEAD CONFIRMS LARGE CLASS SATURDAY

The attendance at the confirmation service of St. Mary's Episcopal church last Saturday evening, was the largest in the history of the Parish. The service began with shortened form of evening prayer, followed by an address by Cortlandt Whitehead, Bishop of the Diocese.

The Bishop's remarks were directed more especially toward a defence of the three orders of the Christian ministry, as set forth in Holy Scripture, and held from the beginning by the church, also her practice of a Liturgical form of worship.

He said, in part, that the Episcopal church was greatly misunderstood and misrepresented. That she stood for what was strictly scriptural and had been held from the very beginning. That her Liturgical form of worship has not the arrangement of man, but the ordering of God. Inasmuch as she accepts the teaching of the whole Bible, and not a part of it. That the New Testament was the completion, and fulfillment of the whole as set forth in the Old Testament.

In defence of the Ritual preferred in the ancient ceremony of the Temple, and shown by such reference to its gorgeous ceremonial that it was ordered by God in the minutest detail. He congratulated the church upon the progress made within the last few months, and bespoke for them a most successful future.

The Bishop expressed himself as most delighted with his visit and entertainment in Charleroi.

Another Suit Has Been Filed Against The Donora Church

LAUDANUM AND SPIRITS COMBINATION

Local Man Gets Too Much
"Stuff" In System And
Raves.

IS CLOSELY GUARDED

Spent Night In Cell At Lockup And Did Strange Things.

With some laudanum and liquor in his stomach Harry Lucas a Charleroi colored man was last night a raving mad man. Today however with the laudanum and the liquor out, he is the same hard working, honest person, that he is generally known to be, and seemingly no worse for his terrible experience.

It is said that Lucas while standing on the corner of Fifth street and McKean avenue last evening between 7:00 and 8 o'clock, half emptied a vial containing some fluid. A moment later he approached Policeman McDowd who was on the corner and asked him to take him to the station house stating that he had "stuff" something.

McDowd started to accommodate him, but it was on the way up Lucas took the remainder of the stuff, and before they had got far, owing to the effect of the drug on the man, assistance had to be called. Chief Albright and officer Higgins responded, and Alex. Ransom was called upon. These four with hard work got Lucas to the lockup where he was placed in a cell. He was fighting the police and beating himself, it is said, in a mad way.

After being placed in the lockup, Dr. Smith was called. He gave Lucas an antidote, which brought the laudanum and whiskey out of his stomach. It did not seem to stop his ravings, however, and a guard had to be placed over him all night. At one time, it is said Lucas tried to hang himself with his coat, and tried to commit strange actions.

The vial which contained the laudanum and spirits which was taken by Lucas was a two ounce bottle, and was rather well filled when he began to drink, it was well drained.

Whether the man meant to commit suicide or not is not known, but this is hardly credited. It is supposed that he suffered temporary mental derangement. This morning Lucas in calling to mind events that happened last night at the time he took the first dose, said that some one gave it to him.

This morning at Bamford station an unknown man was killed by the train due in this place at 10:35. He was brought on to this place on the same train and taken to the undertaking establishment of J. C. Wyckoff on Fallowfield avenue. The body was not badly cut up or bruised, and there were no bones broken except those about the head. In fact he did not show injuries before the authorities.

The man is about 35 or 40 years of age, and 5 feet 6 inches in height. The head was mashed, but the face would be recognizable to the friends.

SEWERS TROUBLE THE TOWN

Belle Vernon People Find
Out They Got In Wrong
Years Ago.

RECEIVE COMMUNICATION

Health Commissioner Dixon Writes To Council Of Matter.

Because it built extensions to its sewer system within the last three or four years without permission of the State Board of Health, Belle Vernon borough has been called upon to explain its actions to that body. Similar action is likely in North Belle Vernon, where much longer extensions have been made. Delay in making a report or getting the matter fixed up with the health authorities throws the municipality liable to a fine of $50 a day for each day such sewer is maintained.

It has only just come to the knowledge of the health commissioner that sewer extensions have been built since the law of 1895 which requires that permission must be obtained before any sewer can be laid. A party of officials is now at work making an investigation of conditions in the Monongahela river water shed, and upon learning the facts Commissioner Samuel G. Dixon immediately sent a letter of inquiry to the council. Nothing has yet been done however.

Total number of points 391.

STENOGRAPHER
FINISHES WORK
ON PREPARATION

Court Reporter W. H. McEneaney has completed the transcribing of the testimony in the Lenhart case, and it is now ready to be turned over to the counsel for the defendant, so that they may prepare the necessary paper book to place the matter before the Superior court. The testimony covers over 600 typewritten pages, making a book a little over an inch thick. If the defense prints all the exhibits the paper book will contain about 1,000 pages.

The case will come before the Superior court at its sitting in Pittsburg in April. In the meantime Lenhart is out on bail and is also bound to appear at the May term of criminal court to answer the charge of aiding and abetting an embezzlement. Should there be a decision of the appellate court before the May term affirming the lower court's judgment in the case, it is likely that Lenhart will not be called to trial on the second charge, but be permitted to begin at once his two years' sentence.

EVENT OF INTEREST AMONG AUTO MEN

An event that is arousing great interest among automobile men of every class will be held on April 29-30, when an endurance run open to all makers of cars, will be conducted by The Chronicle Telegraph and the Gazette Times. A handsome silver cup, with numerous other special prizes, will be awarded the car making the most perfect score at the end of the three-day run. This event promises to do more to stimulate enthusiasm in automobilism in this section of the country than any other contest ever pulled off, for many reasons, and will demonstrate just what cars can stand the severe test in this part of the country, where most manufacturers do not care to be represented on account of the hilly country that its necessary to traverse.

For New Building.

THE PLUMBING CONTRACT

Local Firm Will Doubtless Be Favored; Their Figure
Being The Best.

On Saturday afternoon at Monongahela the general contract for the erection of the new school building for the Third ward, for which a bond issue was declared recently, was let by the school board. The successful bidder was the Homestead Lumber company, who despite the fact that Ramella and Ramella, of Waynesburg was more than $1,000 below them in their bid was awarded the contract.

The Homestead Lumber company's contract price for the general work was $24,611.12. The bid of the Waynesburg firm was $37,418.37. Work is to begin at once on the new structure which is to be placed on the corner of Ninth Thomas and Grant streets. It is hoped to have the six rooms that will be finished first on the first floor ready for the opening of the school for the fall term.

The heating and plumbing contracts were held over until next Saturday, owing to the time consumed in the letting of the general contract. It is likely that Regan and Hornell of Charleroi will be favored in the latter as their bid is the lowest.

The letting of the contract has been held over for some weeks. At first it was planned to have the entire building finished, but it was found that the Board could not keep within the appropriation, and it was decided to finish but the first floor, although the upper floor will be arranged so that it can be fitted up in a very short time.

The structure will be a twelve room brick, and the plans are for one of the most modern school buildings in the valley.

NOTICE

As many of the business people of Charleroi and vicinity are under the impression that M. J. Tylavsky is still president of the Russian Orthodox church of Charleroi, and go to him for the transaction of business connected with the church, I desire to say that he has not been connected with this organization since September 23, 1907. A new president was then elected and M. J. Tylavsky has nothing to do with church affairs since that date. All business to be transacted with the church should be addressed to Alexander Zuraff, of 1216 Meadow avenue or the secretary, J. B. Hordishinsky, of 936 Meadow avenue.

What's Broken?

A ring, brooch, pieces of silver or what? Whatever it is, if it is anything in the jewelry line, rest assured we can fix it properly and promptly. We repair everything from a stick pin to a hall clock, and what's more to the point—we exercise as much care in soldering a broken brooch as in restoring a hundred dollar watch movement.

The prices we charge are as low as the best workmanship will allow, and still they are high enough to insure perfectly finished work.

Date of Inauguration.

The proposed change of the date of the inauguration of the President is one that is receiving great discussion.
While some favor the 4th of May, others have suggested the 4th of July and so forth. In fact there have been several dates suggested, but
none however, we might add, that
would really be more suitable than the 4th of May. It is quite likely that the Constitution will be amended to
the effect that the inauguration come
on a later date, but the idea of the proper time may be anywhere from March to December. The probable
weather condition at the last inauguration, shows what may and what is likely to happen during this month.

The month of May, at just the time
when the mellow spring is ripening into warm summer, would be by far a much better time than any other,
for the one reason, if no other, of the
better weather conditions to be had
at that time. May is known as an unusually mild month, and the outdoor exercises incident with the
inauguration would not be attended
with the discomforts which come frequently during the present set date.

Should Congress so decide to amend
the Constitution, within the next four years, Mr. Taft will serve for a term
longer than any of his predecessors in office. It will be for him, four years and two months for a term. Already
he has something to distinguish him
above that of any other President,
that of mental and legislative training, to fit him for his place, and he would not be surprised to see him get
the above mentioned two months
added onto his term.

Black Hand Men Glad.

The news comes of the shooting of
one of America's greatest detectives on Saturday night in Italy, where he was gone to look into the alleged headquarters of the Camorra band, members of which are to be found in great numbers in this country. This brave man was Joseph Petrosino, an Italian, who has done more to rid this
country of the members of this race than any other man living. It has been said that there was no Black Hand, and it has been said there is.
People claim they know, and one Italian may say one thing, and another
may say something else, but evidently Petrosino found there was such a
band in existence, and fought them at
every corner, which fact is accountable
for his death. He went to Italy secretly and visited the holes of iniquity
where the desperate deeds of blood
thirstiness and violence were planned.

But in some way knowledge of his presence came to some of the
assassins, and his death followed.
It is hard to lose such a man, especially when there is none ready to take his place. It takes the bravest
man to try to fight the Black Hand,
and Petrosino was one of them.

Advantages to be Gained.

The miner's ranks claim more men
than almost any other of the trades
or professions and especially in this
valley, which gives reason for the
intense interest among the people in anything that concerns them. The
miners are withal an easily governed
body, and the system of the United Mine Workers of America has done much for them, but another link in
the getting of better results in this
valley will be had if the plan of
President Francis Feehan of the Fifth
District is adopted at the convention which meets tomorrow in Pittsburgh.
There is every assurance that it
will be, for the miners are not slow
to recognize anything that is for their
good. The matter of dividing the district into six different and smaller
ones, and yet placing them all under
the same head is not altogether an
original one. It is done in other sections, and it has proven a great success, which fact influenced President Feehan to take it up here. It will give the miners themselves more
of a voice in matters. It will provide
also a way of settling difficulties and
the locals themselves can take up all
matters of ordinary interest that at present have to be taken to the district president, and consume time and
money, which might in the meantime
be fixed at home. In brief these are a few of the advantages to be achieved by the adoption of the plan to be suggested by President Feehan. There are more, however, and those best
realized by the miners.

Electric Sparks.

Illinois is considering a bill to "label unmarried men." That's it;
married men certainly don't need the
label.

A family in this city has just celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the entrance of the cock into their service.
Truth is sadder than fiction.

Mr. Taft appears to have made it
fairly plain that the colored brother's
door of hope does not necessarily open on a pathway leading to the pie counter.

"Street car tracks are loaded with microbes," says a Columbus university professor. A college professor should be more careful about calling people names like that.

As a slave Bocker Washington was inventoried at $400. If as freedmen all his rice were worth as much more
as he is the negro problem would be pretty nearly solved.

Purple evening clothes for men are now being worn by some of the advanced thinkers of New York.

Little sympathy should be wasted upon the Philadelphian who was robbed of $200 in the Philadelphia City Hall. He must have known the desperate chances he was taking.

Mr. Roosevelt is not returning to
what, strictly speaking, may be described as private life. Never more privacy for him! Just as he has never ceased to be a citizen while
president, he will never cease to be an ex-president while a citizen.

A SUNDAY STROLL.

This Recreation Was at One Time
Unlawful in Maine.
The biography of Peter Edes, a pioneer printer in Maine, Mr. Edes had an apprentice, James Orrock, who enjoyed
a walk on Sunday after a week of indoor employment.

Mr. Edes soon found out that this was not permitted at Bangor and wrote
to a friend of the trouble caused him
by his apprentice's apparently innocent amusement.

"You must know," he writes, "that
the people are very strict on this day
and will not let men walk out, much less boys. James was strolling about and was ordered home by the trying men, but he would not obey them. A complaint was lodged against me on
the next day, and I should have been obliged to pay a fine had not Judge Dutton pleaded in my behalf that I did not approve of such conduct and
so got clear."

Another interesting incident in connection with life in Bangor at this time is an advertisement which appeared in Mr. Edes' paper, the Bangor
Weekly Register, stating that "E. & M. R. Edes have opened a school in the room over the Register office for
the instruction of young misses and
small children in the useful and ornamental branches of education."

The terms were: "Orthography and
plain work, 17 cents per week; writing, English grammar, geography with the use of maps, composition, ornamental needlework, 25 cents per week." This
was probably one of the first schools in Maine for teaching young ladies exclusively in the branches of education and also including plain work and fanciful needlework.

While worshippers were praying in a Methodist church in Poughkeepsia
the devil, with horns, tail and pitch-
fork, came walking down the aisle,
but when a man arose to grapple with him, he fell into the snow storm.
Satan should have better sense than
to try to frighten a Methodist.

In Minnesota chorus girls are barred from wearing red, white and blue tights by a fine of $500. The object is to prevent the alleged defilement of the national colors. The next thing we shall hear of, is that test against the color on the barber pole.

CIRCUS CHILDREN.

The Making of Acrobats Begins at an Early Age.

It is nothing unusual for the larger
circuses to carry thirty and forty children, ranging all the way from mere
babies to boys and girls of fifteen and
sixteen years of age. The majority
are traveling with their parents, both
the father and mother doing daily duty
in the ring, and while often they are
trained to follow in the steps of their elders they are seldom allowed to perform in public.

It is a common belief among circus
men that the performer whose training
is not started until after the age of six
will seldom make a distinctive record.
Following the afternoon show I often
saw groups of boys, some of whom
could not have been over four and five years old, practicing rudimentary somersaults and hand springs, while their parents looked on with a gratified
smile. These were the families of the circus acrobats, who treasure the records of their ancestors with the
pride of a son in his father's sword and
who see no more inspiring calling for
their own children than that of the great white canvas.

Not that their education is neglected
in other respects. Several of the families often hire an instructor—perhaps
one of the performers who has the
time and ability for such work—to
coach their children in the standard studies. One circus has a traveling school for the youngsters. If they are to be acrobats, they are to be educated
acrobats.—Bohemian Magazine.

A Sponge That Works.

"Here is a clever notion—a fog bell,"
said an old New England fisherman.
On a bleak, gray afternoon they
stood at the seashore—the old man and his city cousin from Boston. A great bell hung from a scaffold, and under
a metal cover hung a great sponge.

"This here machinery is wound up regular," the fisherman explained, "and
this here sponge is kept under cover so
as the rain can't get at it. In dry weather, naturally, the sponge is dry and light; in foggy, though, it gets heavy with fog catchations. Just heavy enough for to press down the lever that starts the machinery a-going.
Then, ding-dong, ding-dong, sounds the bell in the fog, saving many a fisherman from wreck on this rock bound
coast."—Exchange.

A Necessity.

"Twenty dollars for retreating your hat!" exclaimed Mr. Madison. "But
we agreed to spend nothing except for
things that were positively needed."
"Well, John, this is. You see, my best friend has just had hers re-trimmed, and I have promised to go
with her to the concert on Friday."
"Oh, all right. But I can't give you
more than fifteen this morning, because I broke my meerschaum and must have
it mended."

"Can't you smoke your old brierwood?"

"Certainly, dear. And you can wear your old hat."

"Down, let's begin to combing next month after we get things all straightened out."

"All right."—New York Herald.

Sardou's Quip.

"Victorian Sardou hated shams," said a New York theatrical manager.
"If you tried to impose on him he would be sure to find out."

"At the Ambigu, during a rehearsal," he said, he doubted an actor's statement that he had given forty hours of study to his lines.

"You doubt me?" said the actor horrily. "I assure you, Mr. Sardou, I have never lied but twice in my life."

"Sardou smiled dryly."
"Then this makes three," said the manager.

FOUR BOXES.

An Effective Quartet of Great Governing Powers.

"The world is governed by three boxes," said an American wit of a century ago. "The cartridge box, the ballot box and the bandbox."

Between the first two of these great governing powers no one questioned the natural alliance, but that the sex whose box was the bandbox should also claim a right to use the ballot box was in his day undreamed of. Half a century later, during the civil war, Horace Greeley, the famous editor, held the old opinion.

"Madam," he said bluntly at a public meeting to the pioneer suffragist, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, "the bullet and the ballot go together. If you want to vote, are you ready to fight?" "Certainly, sir," replied the quick-witted lady, to the delight of the audience. "I am ready to fight just as you have fought—with my pen."

Not all the early women suffragists would so readily have countenanced warfare, even in jest, for a notable number of them were Quakers or of Quaker ancestry, to whom force was abhorrent. In the Society of Friends, the rights of men and women have been always the same, capital so that as Lucretia Mott declared, it seemed but natural to wish to counsel and act with men everywhere on even terms, as she had always done in Nantucket.

One Quaker philanthropist, Abby Hopper Gibbons, who had never been identified with the "woman's rights" women, yet acknowledged with delicate humor that, although she talked little about her rights, she had "been in the habit of always taking them" when she could.

Once, however, she failed to take a very important one when she was summoned to do so. She had a singularly bold and firm handwriting, easily mistaken for a man's, and often signed business communications simply A. H. Gibbons, so that she one day found herself, as a citizen and a taxpayer, imperatively required, in the name of the law, to furnish reasons why she should not serve as a juror.

"I know of none," she wrote solemnly at the foot of this formidable document and sent it back. But the official who read this apparently impersonal response must have investigated the record of his correspondent and found a reason. For A. H. Gibbons, householder of New York, was ex-lord of service in that fourth box, so important in civilized communities—the jury box.—Youth's Companion.

A Hint.

"You seem to be very fond of your doll," remarked the visitor.

"Yes," replied small Margie. "She's so different from most people. She never interrupts me when I'm talking."—Chicago News.

THE COBRA STONE.

A Ceylon Story About the Reptile and Its Shining Lure.

Every one knows that Ceylon is famous for the amount of queer and rare precious stones found in the sands of its dried up river beds. Among these is one called "chlorophane," a variety of fluor spar, which shines at night with phosphorescent light. There has long been a tradition among the natives that a certain species of cobra makes use of this stone to attract insects in the darkness. Indeed, the name given it is "naja-kallier" or cobra stone. A scientist resolved to test this wonderful story during a stay in the island, so offered any coolie 5 rupees to point out a stone carrying cobra. In about a week an old Tamil came in and offered to show him one. He followed this guide, and, sure enough, there, under an immense tamarind tree, he saw a little point of steady greenish light and could faintly distinguish behind a cobra coiled and slowly waving its head from side to side. It would have been desperately dangerous to approach the reptile, and the coolie begged him not to do so, saying that next night he would himself get the stone. He did so, and is rather clever. Before dark he climbed into the tree, carrying a large bag of ashes. After midnight the cobra turned up, as usual, and deposited its treasure, which it carried in its mouth, before it. Thereupon the coolie emptied his bag of ashes over the shining object, and the frightened reptile after a wild but fruitless search crept back into the jungle. The coolie descended, searched the ashes, found the stone and received his promised reward.—London Telegraph.

Scotland's Patron Saint.

Why was St. Andrew chosen as the patron saint of Scotland? This question has been asked many times, but the archdeacon of whom Dean Hole tells may be considered to have discovered the most satisfactory solution of the problem. "Gentlemen," said he was speaking at a St. Andrew's day banquet at the time. "I have given this difficult subject my thoughtful consideration, and I have come to the conclusion that St. Andrew was chosen to be the patron saint of Scotland because he discovered the lad who had the leaves and ashes."—Dundee Advertiser.

A Dickens Manuscript.

H. F. Dickens, K. C., tells an interesting story concerning the original manuscript of his father's famous "Carol." The novelist presented the MS. to Thomas Milton, an old school-fellow. In 1877 Mr. Milton sold it to Francis Harvey, a book-seller, for £50. Then it passed into the hands of George Churchill, an enthusiastic autograph collector. Mr. Churchill treasured it until 1882, when circumstances compelled him to part with it. After photographing every page of it, it was sold to Mr. Bennett, a Birmingham book-seller and curio dealer, who eventually found a purchaser, who readily signed a check for £200 for it. Finally it was bought by Stuart M. Samuel of Kensington Palace Gardens for £300, who is said to still retain the precious document.—London Tit-Bits.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

Little Helen Bentley of Los Angeles, aged five, dearly loves her grandma, who has been living with her and her parents. Recently grandma went to Seattle for a visit and caught cold on the way. When she arrived there, she wrote back to Helen's parents that she had reached Seattle, but had had a hard fight with the grip. Helen wanted to hear what grandma had to say, and the letter was read to her. Soon afterward she saw one of her neighbors and exclaimed: "Oh, Mrs. Smith, we've had a letter from grandma. She got to Seattle all right, but she had a terrible fight with her valise!"—Los Angeles Times.

How About a Good Back View?

"Auntie Liz had a hard time having her picture taken today," said her nephew, who had just opened a photographic studio, and had been teasingly asked his aunt to come and pose for a new picture. "Why, what was the trouble?" asked his brother. "Well, you see, when I told her to look pleasant she didn't look natural, and when I told her to look natural she didn't look pleasant."—London Home Journal.

Just What You Have Been Wishing For

The greatest American play, by the greatest American playwright, is "The Witching Hour," by Augustus Thomas. It has been produced by the author himself and the story is even better than the play. The Pittsburg Dispatch has said: "From Harvard University, New York, and five other colleges, a delegation of students arrived Sunday, March 2. It is a most fascinating story of typomania, temporary love, mystery and crime. Don't miss the start 'The Witching Hour,' beginning Sunday, March 21, at The Pittsburg Dispatch.

An Unthought Pardon.

Among the stories of our former governor of Texas, recently known as Sam Houston, is more than one amusing tale.

There was a prominent agent of the penitentiary who had warmly opposed the election of Governor Houston but was particularly anxious to retain his own pleasantly lucrative position. Consequently the new governor was soon in receipt of a petition in which the man's years of faithful service and special qualifications for the place were set forth in glowing terms by himself.
The governor sent for him and said graciously: "It appears from this petition that you have been in the penitentiary eight years."

"I have," was the reply.
"And during that time you have performed faithfully every duty that has come in your way to the best of your ability?"

"I have," answered the agent, his courage swiftly rising.
"Then, sir," said the governor with the air of one conferring a priceless favor, "I pardon you out."

A Queen's Will.

Queen Adelaide, the wife of William IV, was a woman of great piety and exceptional humility, which was shown in the directions for her funeral.

"I die in all humility," she wrote, "knowing well we are all alike before the throne of God, and I request, therefore, that my mortal remains be conveyed to the grave without any pomp or ceremony. They are to be moved to St. George's chapel, Windsor, where I request to have a quiet funeral."

"I particularly desire not to be laid out in state, and the funeral to take place by daylight; no procession, the coffin to be carried by sailors to the cooper. I die in peace and wish to be carried to the tomb in peace and free from the clamors and pomp of this world."—London Home Notes.

Too Much For His Mind

"My first impulses," wailed the sad eyed individual "are invariably good.
In fact, I think that I may venture without fear of undue exaggeration to say that they are very good. But I never act on them. I always act on second thoughts. This isn't my fault.
My character has ruined my career, because my second thoughts are always bad.
In fact, I think I may say without fear of exaggeration that they're punk."

"Well," suggested he who was listening, "why don't you wait until third thoughts and act on them?" Mournfully, despondently, the sad eyed individual shook his head.

"My dear sir," he groaned, "I never had three successive thoughts about anything in my life."—Exchange.
